

BETTER LIFE

(Stephane LEBOURG)

Well I saw you standing there
In that place, so close to me
Maybe you got some time to share
But you don't know me
You just look at me
With these eyes
You know I know the meaning
Of that light in your eyes

Well I see you standing there
I know you can see me
I don't know if you dare
We can talk, you and me
But you just look at me
With unusual Suspiciousness
I'm sure you know what can be
Love and happiness

Don't care about what other people say
They scream and shout every day
They speak too loud, with nothing to say
We all have to fight, day after day
For a better life

Well you'll see me standing there
On that bench, right at your place
With some time to spare
Will I be in disgrace
Sure you'll look at me
With that spark in your eyes
Although you don't know me
I really pity you guys

Don't care about what other people say...
They scream and shout every day
They speak too loud, with nothing to say
We all have to fight, day after day
For a better life
